

Bumply safety advice

So you've bumped someone who lives nearby, have had a few messages to and fro and now you are going to meet up.

We hope this is the start of a friendship that will support you and pick you up during all those 3 am feedings and dirty nappies.

We want Bumply to help you connect with new friends but whenever you are meeting someone new, it's always wise to follow a few simple rules just to be on the safe side.

1. Always meet in a public place and stay in a public place throughout the meeting
2. Always let someone know where you are going and what time you will be back
3. Always make sure you have your phone with you
4. Never agree to meet at someone's house
5. Never get into someone's car
6. Never feel pressurised to meet in person anyone you don't want to.
7. Report any unacceptable messages/interactions and block such users immediately.

There's also further advice available online at

<https://www.getsafeonline.org/social-networking/>